ABOUT LEW DOCKSTADER.

Minstrel Has Probably Largest Acquaintance of Men of His Class.

There are probably few men in the nited States who have so wide and ctensive a personal acquaintance as ew Dockstader. His prominence as a erformer for many years, his constant traveling around the country, will eadily account for this, apart from the fact that his general personality and und of good stories make him a most desirable and companionable acquaint-ance at all times.

Like many other individuals in the heatrical world, Dockstader is forced suffer from the horde of absurd in viduals whose one supreme pleasure pears to be getting acquainted with cominent people in the theatrical orld. These people are the bane of actor's existence. Give them lightest latitude and it is next to im-ossible to shake them off.
